WHEN THE GRASS SHALL COVER ME.

When the grass shall cover me,
Head to foot where I am lying;
When not any wind that blows,
Summer blooms or winter snows,
Shall wake me to your sighing,
Close above me as you pass,
You will say, "How kind she was,
You will say, "How true she was,"
When the grass grows over me.

When the grass shall cover me,
Holden close to earth's warm bosom;
While I laugh, or weep, or sing,
Nevermore, for anything;
You will find in blade or blossom
Sweet small voices, ordorous,
Tender pleaders in my cause,
That shall speak me as I was—
When the grass grows over me.

When the grass shall cover me!
Ah, beloved, in my sorrow
Very patient, I can wait—
Knowing that, or soon or late,
There will dawn a clearer morrow;
When your heart will moan: "Alas!
Now I know how true she was;
Now I know how dear she was"
When the grass grows over me!

Monkeys in Defense of their Kind.

A cowardly little Capuchin monkey will charge a bull-dog to rescue a shrieking comrade. Shooting a Rhesus monkey never fails to awaken the anathemas of his fellow-apes; they follow the murderer for miles with indignant shrieks and all sorts of pantomimes, suggestive of reprisal. "In the defiles of Sidi Belbez" (Abyssinia), says Brehm, "we came across a large troop of baboons, crossing the valley ahead of us. Some had already ascended the opposite ridge, and some were still in the valley: the latter were attacked by the dogs, but the old males promptly dashed down the slope, and, with wide-open mouths, roared so fearfully that the dogs quickly drew back. They were again encouraged to the attack, but by this time the baboons had all reascended the heights, excepting a youngster about six months old, who, loudly calling for help, climbed on a block of rock and was surrounded. Then one of the largest males, a true hero, came down again from the mountain, coaxed him, and triumphantly led him away—the dogs being too much astonished to make an attack." To many other species of animals sympathy of that sort is so foreign that they will actually join to massacre a wounded comrade.—Dr. Felix L. Oswald.

An Eccentric Citizen of Moscow.

A Russian novelist has published a biography of Prokofi Demidow, a well-remembered citizen of Moscow, and probably the most eccentric man of his nation. His wealth enabled him to indulge a mania for the strangest kind of bric-a-brac—broken swords, knouts of all sizes and ages, stuffed Cossacks, skulls, bottled monstrosities and reptiles. His museum of living curiosities was equally unique. He kept bears, and wild-boars and had a stable full of unmanageable horses, some of them so vicious that they had to be fed by stratagem; and Demidow's favorite anecdote was the adventure of a horse-thief who one night entered the den of equine monsters and never afterward questioned the existence of a personal devil. To such as knew how to humor his personal whims his liberality was unbounded.—Dr. Felix L. Oswald.

An Extreme Case of Shylockism.

A Berlin correspondent reports a ne plus ultra case of Shylockism. Prof. Bombe, teacher and school inspector, recently left the world by the poison route, and subsequent investigation revealed the fact that he had been hounded to death by a usurer. In 1869 sickness had obliged him to borrow 150 marks—about $32—and a preposterous percentage expanded that sum until the interest exceeded his yearly income, for it was proved that in the course of sixteen years this leech had drained him of 68,500 marks.—Cor. Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Last Battle of the War.

The last battle of the war occured near Brazos Santiago, Tex., May 13, 1865. A small expedition set out to surprise a Confederate camp was overtaken on its return by a larger force and defeated with a loss of eighty men. This engagement is officially reported as the battle of Palmetto Ranch. The Federal troops engaged were the Thirty-Fourth Indiana volunteers, the Sixty-second United States colored infantry and the Second Texas cavalry.—Inter Ocean.

Largest Castings in the World.

Two of the largest castings in the world are to be seen at Nara and Kamakura, Japan, the one at the latter place being forty-seven feet high, and the other at Nara being fifty-three and a half feet from the base to the crown of the head. The statue at Nara is supposed to have been erected in the eighth century, but it was destroyed and recast about 700 years since. In endeavoring to recast it several mishaps occurred, and when at last success came, some few thousand tons of charcoal had been used. The casting, which is an alloy of iron, gold, tin, and copper, is estimated to weigh 450 tons.—New York Sun.

Dudes Among the Crow.

There are dudes among the Crow Indians. Many of the young men, who in the summer time wear nothing to speak of but a breech clout, have this as bespangled as a circus actor's trunk. They also paint their bodies and wear no end of eagle's feathers. Every buck has a little case studded with brass nails, in which are contained paint, feathers, looking-glass, and a variety of breech clouts. The maidens wear a sort of light and airy Mother Hubbard costume, highly colored stockings (usually a flaming red), and paint their hair and person but one shade, a bright vermillion.—Chicago Herald.

Eucalyptus in Steam Boilers.

The use of eucalyptus in steam boilers as a scale preventive and remover seems to be growing in favor. The generally accepted theory of its action is that the vegetable substance attacks the salts, whether sulphates or carbonates of lime, magnesia or other substances, while in solution in the water, and makes a mud of what would otherwise form a solid substance. At the same time the effect upon scale already formed is to dissolve it when porous, and when hard, to slowly soften it so that the scale can be easily removed.—New York Mail and Express.

Suggestion to Dame Nature.

"We don't wish to be understood as finding fault with nature," writes a Jersey correspondent, "but we do wish from the bottom of our hearts that the luminous end of the fire-fly had been hitched to the musquito."—New York Mercury.

"Joobahaw" is a new political word which is said to mean a man who thinks with his jaws. The joobahaw is, therefore, not rare.

THE MUSIC OF THE FLUTE.

Why It Is So Little Heard in the Land—A Plea for the Instrument.

"There is no doubt about it," said William Ronnberg, the venerable John street flute maker, shaking his white head mournfully, "flute playing among amateurs has gone out of style. Worse than that, it has become an object of ridicule. The man who plays the flute for amusement is laughed at; he is regarded as a sort of a Miss Nancy, and his friends make sly remarks about his lowering rents in his neighborhood. The verse makers write what they think are funny rhymes about the toot of the flute, and so, taking all things into consideration, the boy or young man with a taste for music and a desire to learn some musical instrument is actually laughed out of beginning to play one of the best parlor instruments that is made.

"But what does he learn instead, in nine cases out of ten?" continued the old gentleman. "Why, either the ear-splitting cornet or the musicless banjo. Think of that! Instead of an instrument like the flute, with its soft, sweet musical tones, he takes a brass nuisance and blows his lungs out trying to get music out of it. Lowering rents, indeed! Well, I don't want to be a neighbor to the young man who is playing the cornet. The banjo isn't quite as bad, but what music there is in its pink-a-pink-a, punk-a-punk, I don't know."

Mr. Ronnberg spoke with the warmth of a partisan. He pretends to be nothing else. He has been making flutes more years than most men live, and looks back with regret to the days of '54, when he employed a shopful of men, and turned out flutes by the score. Those were the days when it was the thing for young men to play the German flute, as the four, six, and eight keyed flutes were called. Those were the days when professional flute players were abundant and excellent. The old man no longer makes German flutes, but in his little shop he still makes Boehm flutes, apparently quite as skilfully as he ever did.

"It is just possible," he continued, "that the Boehm flute has something to do with the decrease in the popularity of the flute, although it is almost treason to say so. The Boehm is a perfect instrument, immeasurable superior to the old flute. It is very much more expensive, costing all the way from $150 upward. It is also more complicated in its mechanism, although much easier to play, and therefore more liable to get out of order. And here comes the point I want to make. An amateur buys a Boehm flute, and enjoys it. About the time he has it well in hand it gets out of order. A mere trifle perhaps. The maker could fix it in a minute. But the owner tinkers with it, gets it worse, takes it to the first music store he sees; they tell him they'll have it fixed; they send it to some flute tinker, and the result is, too often, the flute is spoiled. Now, had the owner sent it at once to the maker, even from a distance, his flute would have come back better than ever. And so it comes about that you will find, in not a few homes, Boehm flutes that cost a good sum lying dried up and useless, all for want of a little care.

"It is now the fashion to revive old styles. Why doesn't some one revive flute playing? There is no instrument more perfectly fitted for the parlor. Accompanied by the piano, or the harp, or guitar, or even the banjo it is very pleasing. There is much excellent music arranged for the flute and piano, and when you take two flutes and piano, each well played, then you have music indeed."

Printers Ink and Photography.

For the benefit of those persons not familiar with processes by which photography is used in connection with printer's ink, it may be well to describe it briefly. A sheet of glass is covered with a film of sensitized gelatine, upon which the light coming through a photographic negative is allowed to fall. Whenever the light comes through unobstructed the gelatine is made insoluble: elsewhere it will absorb water like a sponge. After being washed in water an ink roller is passed over the gelatine surface, and it is found that where the gelatine is hard and dry the ink "takes," but where it is spongy and full of water it does not take. From such a plate pictures in printer's ink can be made with an ordinary press. The same plate suffices for thousands of copies sometimes, and gives a delicacy of tone which promises to drive wood and steel cuts out of all fine books. Carefully made pictures by this process are unquestionably finer than photographs.—New York Post.

The Germ Theory in 1721.

It has been found that Pasteur's germ theory was anticipated more than a century and a half ago by a physician of Lyons named Goiffon, who, in writing about the origin of the great plague, in 1721, made the following statement: "Minute insects or worms alone can explain these diseases. It is true they are not visible; but it does not therefore follow that they are non-existent. It is only that our microscopes are not at present powerful enough to show them. We can easily imagine the existence of creatures which bear the same proportion to mites that mites bear to elephants. No other hypothesis can explain the facts. Neither the malign influence of the stars, nor terrestrial exhalations, nor miasmata, nor atoms, whether biting or burning, acid or bitter, could regain their vitality once they had lost it. If on the other hand, we admit the existence of minute living creature, we understand how infection can be conveyed in a latent condition from one place to break out afresh in another."—The Current.

Philadelphia hack drivers and grave diggers are moving to do away with Sunday burials.

The mortality among the children of New Orleans has been remarkable this summer.

—The buffalo-gnats, the pest of the lower Mississippi valley, have done a work of destruction among the stock of Tennessee. Reports of cattle, horses and mules having been goaded to death by these insects are received daily. A colored man named Sneiss was stung and choked to death. He was found dead, evidently the victim of gnats, which swarmed about the corpse. Gnats crawled in and out of his ears and nose. His mouth and nostrils were filled with them. This is the second case on record where buffalo-gnats have destroyed human life.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

A Good Definition.

"Pa," said a young hopeful, "I know what a man who has seen better days is."
"Well, my son, what is he?"
"He's a man who makes you tired talking about himself."—New Orleans Picayune.

AMONG THE "COFFEE BOILERS."

How an Army "Picnic in the Woods" Was Broken Up by Shot and Shell.

After a little while the first sergeant came to me and said: "You seem to be tired. Go to the rear with the caissons after ammunition." I handed the heavy sponge staff to another cannoneer and walked to the caissons. Mounting on the empty chests I rode to the rear, where the ammunition wagons were parked. A portion of the road we traveled over ran within three-fourths of a mile of a heavy Confederate redoubt, out of whose embrasures the muzzles of large black guns were thrust. To the right of this piece of road was an open field of thin, poverty-creating soil; beyond the field was a forest. Thickly scattered among the trees, and grouped at the edge of the open field in the shade, were those cowards, the "coffee boilers." Gangs of officers' servants and many refugee negroes were there. Pack mules loaded with pots, frying pans, gripsacks, and bags of clothing stood tied to trees. White capped army wagons, with six mules harnessed to them, stood at the edge of the woods. The drivers of these wagons were drinking coffee with friendly "boilers," and they were probably frightening one another by telling blood-curdling tales of desperate but mythical battles they had been engaged in. Fires were burning brightly in the forest, and thin columns of smoke arose above the trees. I could almost smell the freshly-made Rio and the broiled bacon. It was as though a huge picnic were going on in the woods. The scene angered me. I knew that the "coffee boilers" were almost to a man bounty-jumping cowards, and I wanted the camp broken up.

The Confederates in redoubt allowed us to pass to the rear without firing on us; but we were empty and not worth powder and shot. Arriving at the park of the amunition train we filled our amunition chests, and then began the return march. When the full caissons came out of the woods on to the portion of the road which was exposed to the fire from the fort I saw the Confederate gunners spring to their cannon. I looked at the camp of the "coffee-boilers." They were enjoying life. I leaned forward and clasped my knees with excess of joy as I realized what was about to occur. The Confederate gunners were going to try to blow up our caissons. I was confident that they could not hit us, and was also confident that their attempt would bloodily disturb the camp of the "boilers" and hangers-on. We broke into a trot, then into a gallop, and then into a dead run. Clouds of smoke shot forth from the redoubt, and out of these large black balls rose upward and rushed through the air, and passed, shrieking shrilly, close above us to descend to the camp of the "boilers."

It was a delightful scene. I hugged my knees and rocked to and fro, and laughed until my fleshless ribs were sore. Shells swept above me and burst in the woods. Shot howled past and cut large trees down, and they fell with a crash among the frying pans and coffee pots. Teamsters sprang into their wagons, or onto their saddle mules, and savagely plied their whips and hastened away from the pasture field. Negro servants loosened their pack mules and hung on to the loads of tinware as they, yelling at the top of their voices, ran for the rear. Men, clad and armed as soldiers, skurried as frightened rabbits, hiding in holes, lying prone on the earth, dropping behind logs. Through the dust and smoke and uproar I saw men fall, saw others mangled by chunks of shell, and saw one, struck fairly by an exploding shell, vanish. Enormously pleased, I hugged my lean legs, and laughed and laughed again. It was the most refreshing sight I had seen for weeks. Our caissons, each drawn by six galloping horses, passed safely through the fire and entered the protecting woods, and, moving rapidly across the blood chilling belt where the spent balls fell and the wounded lay, were soon within the battle-line, and I was again engaged in helping to waste the good powder and shot and shell.—Frank Wilkeson in Chicago Times.

Not To Be Outdone.

Queen Victoria once being at an important ceremony in a north of England city, a paper was brought to her for her signature. Of course she inscribed it as usual, "Victoria, R. et I." Then her favorite daughter's signature was desired and was duly written, "Beatrice." Finally the wife of the mayor was called to sign the paper, and not to be outdone by any mere royalties she unhesitatingly wrote "Mary."—Cleveland Leader.

A Hindoo Woman's Heaven.

On an average there are altogether about 120,000 hairs on one head. The Hindoos had a strange way of applying calculations of this kind. When a woman ascends the burning pile of her husband, she was oftentimes said to be exalted to heaven, to enjoy as many years as there are hairs on the whole body of her deceased lord, roundly calculated at 35,000,000.—Exchange.

Turtles for New York.

From 5,000 to 8,000 green turtles are annually brought to New York, and they sell at an average of 15 cents per pound, gross weight. They come from Florida, the West Indies, and the shores of the Spanish main. Occasionally one is caught as far north as Long Island. They are caught in nets, and also on the beach when they come up to lay their eggs.—Exchange.

A Triumph of Alliteration.

Our English alliterative triumph is the following line, composed by a young lady in the year 1800, on the occasion of a gentleman of the name of Lee planting a lane with lilacs:

"Let lovely lilacs line Lee's lonely lane!"

in which not only every word but every syllabel commenced with the same letter.—The Argonaut.

Branding Cattle on the Plains.

Some of the owners bunch their cows and calves and drive them to their ranches, there to be branded after the round-up is over. If the number of grown cattle to be branded is large, they are either driven home or branding-pens are built for the purpose. In the latter case, instead of being lassoed and thrown down to be branded, the cattle are driven through a "chute"—a narrow passage between stout, high-planked fences, just wide enough for them to pass. Here, as the steer or cow goes by a certain point, it is held fast for a moment, and a hot branding-iron is pressed against its side. The animal bellows with pain, a slight smoke follows the application of the iron, a scorching smell of singeing hair and sizzing skin is perceived, and the victim passes on the way, bearing the clean design of a fresh brand on its side.—Cor. Chicago Tribune.

The mercury stood at 119 degrees in the shade at Hopland, Mendocino county, California, July 17. Fruit exposed to the sun was burned black.

THE article published in another column under the caption of "Corporal Punishment in our Public Schools," is from the pen of a lady living in an adjoining county, who has had much experience in the training of children. We agree with the writer that the rod should be abolished in our public schools, or if applied at all, that the blows should not be "well laid on," as was the case with the child whom Mrs. Cadwell of San Francisco so inhumanly flogged, a short time since. Corporal punishment is a relic of barbarism, and is gradually being cast aside by many of our intelligent teachers and kind words used instead.

A few years ago the Sonoma Public School was one of the most unruly in the State, and although the rod was applied unmercifully, right and left, by each succeeding teacher, the scholars were more unruly than ever. Such was the conduct of the school when Mrs. F. McG. Martin became its principal, three years ago. This lady, unlike many of her predecessors, laid aside the rod, and by kind words coupled with firmness, had the scholars completly under her control at the start, and to-day there is no better or a more intelligent class of scholars to be found anywhere than in the Sonoma Public School.

It is to be regretted that there is a diversity of opinion among our educators in this respect. But there is always two sides to every question, and there always will be. For our part we have been opposed to corporal punishment in our schools ever since, when a small lad, we soiled our pinafore making mud pies in the back yard of a private boarding school, and later on, when a "Bigger Boy," we played "hookey" from the district school. It is years since these things happened, but they have left an impression on our mind, as likewise they did on our back at the time, and corporal punishment has no friend or backer in the INDEX-TRIBUNE.

OUR native Americans, says the Alta, are loosing their speed as office-hunters. Just look at this: Gunther, Congressman-elect from Wisconsin, landed fifteen years ago in Castle Garden with $24 in his pocket and a taste for beer in his neck. In six years he was State Auditor of Wisconsin, and now cleans out an Italian named Delaney for Congress.

A SAN FRANCISCO divine asks: "Where is heaven?" We can't exactly locate it, but we'll bet a big American dollar that the delinquent subscriber will have no trouble in telling where the other place is, in the sweet by-and-bye, if he isn't square with this office when he "croaks."

Money to be Made.

It is said that dull times are not known by the agents of the great publishing house of George Stinson & Co. of Portland, Maine. The reason of this exceptional success is found in the fact that they always give the public that which is keenly appreciated and at prices that all can afford. At present we understand their agents are doing wonderfully well on several new lines. They need more agents in all parts of the country. Those who need profitable work should apply at once. Women do as well as men. Experience is not necessary, for Messrs. Stinson & Co. undertake to show all who are willing to work, not hard but earnestly, the path to large success. It should be remembered that an agent can do an excellent business without being away from home over night. Another advantage—it costs nothing to give the business a trial, and an agent can devote all his time, or only his spare moments to it. Stinson & Co guarantee grand success to all who follow the simple and plain directions which they give. We have not space to explain all here, but full particulars will be sent free to those who address the firm. Their full address is given above.

Corporal Punishment in Our Public Schools.

[Communicated.]

If the charges recently preferred against Mrs. L. F. Cadwell, principal of the Peabody School, San Francisco, which have been so freely ventilated through the Press of that city, that lady must believe in the old maxim, "He that spareth the rod spoileth the child." I say that teachers, be they men or women, who are so little skilled in human nature as to expect to reform a child by inflicting torture, are unworthy of the vocation. It is true that teachers in our public schools have many difficulties to contend with. Many of them will tell you that children are not fit subjects of reasoning, and must be kept in order by the use of the rod. This is a great mistake and a fatal error. Frequent, well-timed and kindly appeals to a child's feelings and ambition will prevail where the rod will not. A child reasons on all it sees and hears and if it cannot be made to distinguish truth from error it is from lack of skill on the part of the reasoner, rather than any lack of penetration in the child. Instead of cultivating the gentler and nobler qualities of the mind by kindness, parents and teachers often eradicate them by the use of the rod, and implant in their stead the seeds of bad passion. For it is well known that corporal punishment for all offenses is calculated to engender hatred, animosity, falsehood and duplicity. Parents and teachers, remember that it is cruel and unjust to overshadow a child's young life. Childhood is but a brief sunshine of pleasure, to be followed by a long series of years of toil, care and suffering, and it is inhuman to interrupt their innocent joys. The great object in school discipline is to resist the beginning of evil, and if punishment must be inflicted let it be prompt, yet remote from anything like cruelty. Corporal punishment is ineffective in accomplishing the purposes of dicipline and degrades the teacher. I trust that the time is not very far distant when it will no longer disgrace that which should to be the sanctuary of moral culture and knowledge.

A new hotel, to cost $100,000, is the latest Santa Rosa scheme.

The Santa Rosa "Republican" says: E. P. Colgan has filed his bonds as Sheriff and Tax Collector in the sum of $220,000. Nearly all the bondsmen are Democrats.

Frank Armstrong has been sentenced to be hanged at Belleville, Idaho, for assassinating Paul Kulbert, at one time a sheep-owner in this county.

G. P. McNear of Petaluma and John Switzer of Marin have been elected Directors of the Sonoma and Marin District Agricultural Association. Josiah White of Lakeville was re-elected President.

M. E. Gilford, who resides near this city, shipped two cases—500 pounds—of tobacco to San Francisco Friday. The leaf was of a soft and fine texture and as fragrant as the weed from the celebrated tobacco districts. There are few things that cannot be produced in Sonoma county—Democrat.

On Monday night some scoundrel entered the wine-cellar of Mrs. C. Leveroni, Santa Rosa, and knocked out the lower bugs of four large tanks. Nearly 8,000 gallons of wine ran out on the floor and was wasted. Revenge instigated the act, and its perpetrator is suspected in the person of a discharged employee.

In the Superior Court at Santa Rosa, last Saturday, Judge Temple denied a motion for a new trial in the case of Ellen M. Colton vs. Leland Stanford et. al. The defendants put in a bill of costs amounting to $46,882.87, which the Judge cut down to the insignificent sum, comparatively speaking, of $3,388.85.

Lee Patton, aged eleven, son of Joe Patton of Dry Creek, while out guanning last Sunday, was shot and instantly killed by the premature discharge of his shot gun. He was alone at the time, and not returning home, a search was instituted and he was found the following morning, a short distance from his home, lying face downward with a terrible wound in his face and chest.

It is rumored that a widow lady of means who resides in a handsome residence near Cloverdale has been victimized in the late stock deal in San Francisco, to the tune of $105,000. R. P. SMITH, Jr., County Physician.

On motion of Mr. Allen, the sum of $255 36 was ordered transferred from the Court House Fund, and $166 from the Swamp and Overflowed Land Fund, to the General Fund of the county.

In the matter of a clerical error in the assessment roll, by which Mrs. M. Carriger was assessed $550 for a lot in St. Louis, Sonoma township, worth only $50, Mr. Allen moved that the Collector receive the proper tax on $50, and return the balance delinquent. So ordered.

Eleven o'clock being the hour set for the hearing of the County Physician's report on the result of his investigation of the new County Hospital plans, Dr. Smith was called upon. He stated that he had the assistance of two other medical gentlemen, and they had decided that the Furbey plans, enlarged and modified, taking into consideration the price, were the best to be adopted by the county. The plans as modified by Mr. Furbey and the committee of medical gentlemen, were then spread upon the table and examined by the Board. A building built from the plans and specifications will cost about $11,400.

On motion of Mr. Connolly the further consideration of the matter was postponed until 1 o'clock, and the Board took a recess until that hour.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Board reconvened at 1 o'clock, all members present.

The consideration of the Furbey plan for the new hospital was resumed.

On motion of Mr. Coulter, all the plans and specifications for the new County Hospital submitted pursuant to an advertisement, were rejected, and the plans presented by Dr. R. P. Smith, Jr., (the Furbey plan modified) were adopted, and the Clerk was authorized to advertise for bids for the construction of the building in accordance with the plans adopted.

In the matter of the bills of the American Bridge and Building Co., on account of bridges now being constructed by the company, Mr. Allen moved that warrants be drawn as follows: Dry creek bridge, $2000; Maycamas creek bridge, $510.

Mr. Coulter moved to amend by substituting the words, "that the bid of the American Bridge Co. for the construction of a bridge across Santa Rosa creek at the foot of Third street be accepted and the contract be awarded accordingly."

Mr. Allen objected to the consideration of the amendment, as not being germain to the subject at issue.

The Chair sustained Mr. Allen's objection, whereupon Mr. Coulter appealed from the ruling of the Chair. The vote resulted as follows: Ayes—Allen, O'Hara, Ellis; noes, Coulter, Connolly.

The original motion was then voted upon, with the following result: Ayes—Allen, Connolly, O'Hara, Ellis; noes, Coulter.

On motion of Mr. Coulter, the bidders were allowed to withdraw their plans and specifications of the Hospital.

On motion of Mr. Connelly, the Board adjourned until January 3, 1887, at 10:30 A. M.

Shaw, Treas.; Mrs. Dr. McMahan, C.; Mrs. McIntyre, A. C. The retiring Matron, Mrs. C. After the conclusion of the installation ceremonies Worthy Patron Goodman presented Mrs. McHarvey with a handsome and costly jewel.

CLOSING EXERCISES.

An Affecting Leave-Taking Between Teacher and Pupils.

The closing exercises of the Sonoma Public School were held last Friday afternoon. A large number of parents and others interested in school work assembled in the school room, where they were agreeably entertained by the pupils. In addition to the usual programme consisting of recitations, songs, etc., there was a debate by the Webster Debating Society, composed wholly of the pupils.

After the exercises were over, John Skinner, on behalf of the scholars of Mrs. Martin's room, presented that lady with a beautiful chased silver and cut-glass bouquet holder, as a token of their love and esteem. In making the presentation the young gentleman said:

"Dear Teacher—We deeply regret your leaving, and wish to express our love and respect for you as a faithful teacher and friend, by presenting you with this little gift. It is but a faint expression of our appreciation. You have done us much good and we all appreciate your service. Wishing you success in your new career we shall never cease to regret your leave-taking"

Mrs. Martin was completely taken by surprise, and this coupled with the thought that she was about to take leave of her loving scholars, to whom she had become greatly endeared in the past three years, made it almost impossible for her to respond. However, with tearful eyes she feelingly thanked the scholars for the love that prompted the gift, and said, among other things, that although she had taught in our public schools for fifteen years, she never before had experienced such deep regret at parting with her scholars as on this occasion.

In the evening the scholars of Mrs. Martin's room gave a literary entertainment and ball at Union Hall in honor of the departure of their teacher, who goes to Santa Rosa, Monday, where she will assume the duties of Superintendent of Common Schools of the county on January 1st. The hall was packed nearly to suffocation, and many were the expressions of regret heard on all sides at the intended departure of our lady Principal. After a few appropriate remarks by Mrs. Martin, the following programme was well carried out:

Chorus, "Welcome".....By the School
Recitation, "Marriage of Santa Claus".....Sarah Jones
Recitation, "Birds of No Feather".....Anabel McDonnell
Recitation, "Our Folks".....Clara Cheney
"Farmer Stebbins at Ocean Grove".....Millie Skinner
Duet, "List to Convent Bells"
Recitation, "The Girls' Protest"...Florence Campbell
Recitation, "The Deacon's Courtship".....Zoe Clark
Recitation, "The Christening".....Lottie Morris
Quartette, "The Distant Chimes."

The exercises concluded, the floor was made ready for dancing and one of the most enjoyable hops that has taken place in Sonoma for a long time terminated the evenings entertainment.

Row Among the Heavenly Bodies.

Last Friday week a number of Celestials were playing fan in Hi Lo's wash-house, when a dispute arose as to who was entitled to the pot, which contained about $30. A fight ensued and a Chinaman who had grabbed the money was set upon by three others, knocked down and the money taken away from him. He made a complaint before Justice Breitenbach, charging Young Ting and Ah Chung with robbery, and engaged John T. Enos as prosecuting attorney, and vowed to get revenge. The other side meanwhile, sent to Santa Rosa for T. J. Geary, and a lively time was anticipated at the examination, which was set for Monday forenoon, but the contending parties took the advice of their attorneys and compromised. Justice Breitenbach thereupon made an order that the prosecution was without probable cause, and that the prosecuting witness pay the costs. However, each party put up one-half the costs, amounting to $18 50, and paid their lawyers $30 each, and went their way rejoicing.

The Rainbow Social.

The Rainbow social held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. McHarvey on Thursday evening of last week, by the Congregational church ladies was well attended. The attraction of the evening was a sewing contest between the gentlemen present, whereby each essayed to win the prizes offered for the best skill exhibited in hemming an apron. The first prize, a handsome bronze inkstand, was triumphantly borne off Robert Dunn; the second prize, a silver-plated calendar, was awarded to Mr. Madison, while Lathrop Dunn, amid much merriment, was given the booby prize. The sewing contest together with vocal and instrumental music and refreshments, went to make up a very enjoyable evening for the assembled guests.

The publisher of Baltimore, Md., "Every Saturday," Mr. Wentworth, says his child aged six months, was suffering from a severe cold, and he gave it Red Star Cough Cure, which acted like a charm. No morphia.

The Occidental Hotel is fast becoming a popular resort. †

Tan Game Raided.

Marshal Breitenbach and Deputy Marshal Vallejo raided a tan game in a Chinese house on Spain street, at an early hour Thursday evening. As the house was entered an alarm was given and the players, numbering a dozen or more, scattered in all directions. Deputy Vallejo, however, succeeded in arresting the dealer and one of the players, and captured the dealer's outfit, consisting of checks, Chinese money, etc. The amount represented by the checks is considerably over $1400. These are used by the dealer in paying the losses of the bank and are cashed by him when presented for payment, as in faro. Between $26 and $27 in coin was also found on the persons of the prisoners, who were lodged in jail to await their examination.

The People vs. Bailiff.

The trial of John Bailiff for slaying lawyer Noon, is now progressing in the Superior Court at Santa Rosa. The following have been accepted as jurymen to try the defendant: Vernon Downs, William Caldwell, A. F. Chamberlain, Louis Hendricks, A. H. Gibbons, J. H. Curtis, William Mulligan, M. Cummings, E. M. Pedigo, David Sloper, M. Young, A. C. Stephenson. At the conclusion of Bailiff's trail a jury will be selected to try Al. Reed as an accessory. Public opinion seem to favor Bailiff, and his chances of acquital are more than even.

Swallowed His Teeth.

[Napa Journal, Dec. 9.]

On Wednesday evening of last week, Wm. Head, son of George Head the shoe dealer, accidentally swallowed his false teeth, together with the plate to which they were fastened. Medical aid was soon summoned, but all efforts to recover them before they passed into the stomach proved futile. The young man is now lying at his father's home on Clay street, and his condition is considered quite serious. He suffers considerable pain at times, and it is possible that a surgical operation will become necessary.

A Common Cold

Is often the beginning of serious affections of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes, and Lungs. Therefore, the importance of early and effective treatment cannot be overestimated. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral may always be relied upon for the speedy cure of a Cold or Cough.

Last January I was attacked with a severe Cold, which, by neglect and frequent exposures, became worse, finally settling on my lungs. A terrible cough soon followed, accompanied by pains in the chest, from which I suffered intensely. After trying various remedies, without obtaining relief, I commenced taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and was Speedily Cured.

I am satisfied that this remedy saved my life.—Jno. Webster, Pawtucket, R. I.

I contracted a severe cold, which suddenly developed into Pneumonia, presenting dangerous and obstinate symptoms. My physician ordered the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. His instructions were followed, and the result was a rapid and permanent cure.—H. E. Stimpson, Rogers Prairie, Tex.

Two years ago I suffered from a severe Cold, which settled on my Lungs. I consulted various physicians, and took the medicines they prescribed, but received only temporary relief. A friend induced me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking two bottles of this medicine I was cured. Since then I have given the Pectoral to my children, and consider it for Colds, Coughs, and all Throat and Lung diseases, ever used in my family.—Robert Vanderpool, Meadville, Pa.

The Best Remedy

Some time ago I took a slight Cold, which, being neglected, grew worse, and settled on my Lungs. I had a hacking cough, and was very weak. Those who knew me best considered my life to be in great danger. I continued to suffer until I commenced using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Less than one bottle of this valuable medicine cured me, and I feel that I owe the preservation of my life to its curative powers.—Mrs. Ann Lockwood, Akron, New York.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is considered, here, the one great remedy for all diseases of the throat and lungs, and is more in demand than any other medicine of its class.—J. F. Roberts, Magnolia, Ark. ††

HAPPENINGS IN WAR.

A Lottery in Which the Prizes are Wounds and Death.

[Army Bulletin.]

Men might write for 100 years of the curious phases of war, and still leave the subject fresh. War is a lottery, and the prizes are shot, shell, wounds and death. Tens of thousands of men served four years in the late war and returned home. In 1,000 cases recruits were killed within twenty-four hours after reaching the front. War's missiles are no respectors of persons, and the soldier who fights an all day's battle without receiving a wound may be killed in his tent at night by the accidental discharge of a musket.

At the battle of Franklin the first shell sent from the first field-piece to open fire killed twenty-six Confederates. The next five shells from the same gun either failed to explode or cleared the advancing lines. In this same fight, the horse of a Confederate Colonel was cut square in two by a shot, and the rider escaped unhurt. Ten minutes after a Union officer behind the breastworks stumbled and fell forward on the ground, breaking his neck.

In one of the assaults of Fort Wagner, in Charleston harbor, the iron-clad fleet, assisted by land batteries, numbering twenty-seven heavy cannon, bombarded the fort for two hours without killing a single soldier. From seventy to eighty heavy cannon were hurling three tons of iron into the fort each minute, and yet no one was hurt until over three hundred tons of "solid death" had been wasted. As an offset to this, look at the work of a single solid shot thrown from a Federal gunboat on the lower Mississippi. A Confederate flying battery was just taking positon, and one piece had already opened fire. The Federal shot was aimed at this piece. The big mass of iron struck the six pounder square on the muzzle and upset gun and carriage. A piece of the muzzle, weighing about twenty pounds, was broken, and this flew to the left and killed two men. Three men were hurt by smaller fragments or flying splinters. The big shot next struck and exploded a caisson, killing three men and wounding two others. From the caisson it turned to the right, killed a horse, smashed a wheel of a field piece, and crushed the leg of a sergeant to a bloody mass. That one shot so disorganized the battery that it limbered up and wheeled away to cover.

While heavy ordnance is necessary in reducing forts and earthworks, it is doubtful if there was any profit in the use of the big guns carried by the iron-clads on the rivers. When McClellan fell back he had the cover of gun-boats, and some writers have claimed that their fire saved his army from capture. So far as the Confederacy records show, the loss by hundreds of enormous shells thrown over the heads of our troops into the woods by these great cannon amounted to no more than 100 men. They were a new thing then, and the effect of the terrific explosion on the men was demoralizing on the troops in line.

A Union gun-boat on the White river threw three shells into a Confederate camp, killed nearly fifty men, and routed a force of eight hundred. Within a week after this event the Confederate Gen. Shelby planted four pieces of flying artillery on the levee, within four hundred feet of the same gun-boat at anchor, and without the least cover for men or guns kept up the fight for ever an hour, or until the gunboat backed out of it and steamed away.

The chances in a lottery can be figured down fine, and a certain percentage of escapes is allowed in a steamboat explosien, but he who goes to war has nothing to console him. He may dodge a 200-pound shell and be killed by two buckshot. He may receive a dozen bullets and live on, or the first may be fatal. He may ride in the wildest charge unhurt, and he may be killed by a stray bullet around his campfire.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years has astonished the world. It is the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, Colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given Physicians, as it does not dry up a Cough and leave disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of trouble, heals the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land. Price, 75cts., large bottles.

If you have poultry you wish to sell go to Christie's. *

Christmas Work for Little Fingers.

[California Patron.]

Book Weight—Take a piece of satin ribbon about ten inches long and three inches wide. Fold the selvage edges exactly to the middle of the ribbon, and sew them in such a manner that they will form two long, narrow bags. These are to be filled with shot, which must be kept in place by a few stitches. The ends are to be finished off with fringe, or a little beadwork. This will make a pretty and useful present to keep open the unruly pages of a new book.

Fancy Mat for Table—Take a piece of thin gray cardboard, and embroider a pretty design in red cotton on it. Finish the edges with a buttonhole stitch, and put a plaited frill of colored paper around it. When finished line it with white paper.

Spool Holder—The foundation is of cardboard; it is cut in one piece and turned up to form the sides. It is then covered and lined with silk. Place the spools in it, and cut the edges round like the spools and bind them with ribbon. Work eyelet holes opposite the holes in the spools and run ribbon through them to keep the spools in place.

Painted Glove Box—Line a cigar box with pressed silver paper or satin. On the four sides and the top of the cover paint a pretty design. Take narrow black velvet and nail it all around the painting with brass studs.

Napkin Ring—Cut a piece of perforated cardboard (gold or silver) the desired width and length. Embroider an initial on it, and line it with silk. Fasten it with a button and an elastic loop.

Work Basket—Through the openings of a wicker basket, weave satin ribbon, joining the ends on the top with a bow. On one side of the basket fasten a small square cushion for pins and loose needles; on the other make two pockets, for thread and thimble. As satin ribbon is rather an expensive item for little girl's purses, buy instead, a few sheets of colored paper, cut it in strips the desired width, and weave it through the basket exactly as you would do the ribbon. A basket trimmed in this manner has almost the same effect as one trimmed with ribbons.

Work Bag—Cut a piece of satin into strips about four inches wide and eighteen inches long. Between each strip of satin sew cretonne of the same width, in which flowers have been interlined in tinsel. Line with silk, and draw together with ribbons through a shir, made one and a half inches from the top; put a tassel on the end.

Chair Comfort—Make a long, narrow bag of cretonne, line both ends with a bright, contrasting color; stuff the bag with hair or wool as far as the lined portion which is tied with a large bow. This cushion is fastened to the back of the chair by two cords to prevent it from falling off.

Match Safes—Cut off the top of an egg shell and empty it of its contents. Then paint the shell a delicate pink inside, and blue outside; make a hole on either side and run a ribbon through them, by which to hang it.

Xmas Cards—Take pieces of white or tinted cardboard, cut them in squares; on them paste pressed flowers, arranging them as delicately as possible, with the words "Merry Christmas" also made of flowers. If California wild-flowers are used, these cards will make a pretty souvenir for your Eastern friends.

Man (to friend)—"Come, let us walk down this way again."

Friend—"Why?"

"Don't you see that fellow over yonder?"

"Yes, what of it?"

"Well, I want to meet him as often as possible."

"I don't understand you."

"I'll explain. You know that I'm the worst man in the country for owing people?"

"Yes."

"And when I owe a man I dodge him?"

"I believe I have noticed that."

"Well, now I've got revenge."

"How so?"

"Why, you see, that fellow over there owes me. When I see him dodge me it tickles me nearly to death. I have been so hampered by men whom I owe that I now enjoy being owed. See how he gets around the corner! Let's walk over that way. Say, hold on; let's go back."

"What's the matter?"

"See that fellow?"

"Yes; what of it?"

"Nothing, only I owe him. Confounded it, a man never begins to enjoy himself but some unfortunate thing arises."

How's Your Liver?

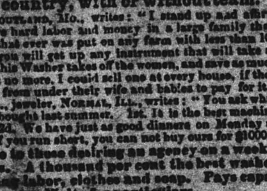

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.

As a general family remedy for Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.

AGENTS WANTED for the MISSOURI STEAM Washer

Active, honest persons all over the country, with or without team.

JOHN C. EVANS, Stoutland, Mo., writes: "I stand up and affirm that a Washer saves more hard labor and money in a large family than any Reaper and Mower that ever was put on any farm with less than 100 acres in cultivation. If you will get up any instrument that will take as much labor off of men as this Washer takes off the women, and save as much money as it does and cost no more, I could sell one at every house, if they had to take the feathers from under their wife and babies to pay for it."

JOHN R. DODGE, JR., jeweler, Normal, Ill., writes: "You ask what I think of the Washer I bought last summer. 1st. It is the best machine ever invented by man. 2d. We have just as good dinners on Monday as on any other day. 3d. If you run short, you can not buy ours for $1000."

I will ship a sample to those desiring an agency on a week's trial on liberal terms. A thousand per cent the best washer in the world for saving labor, clothes and soap. Pays capable agents big money. Write for particulars.

CONSUMPTION,

which is Scrofulous Disease of the Lungs, is promptly and certainly arrested and cured by this God-given remedy, if taken before the last stages of the disease are reached. From its wonderful power over this terribly fatal disease, when first offering this now celebrated remedy to the public, Dr. PIERCE thought seriously of calling it his "Consumption Cure," but abandoned that name as too limited for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequaled, not only as a remedy for consumption of the lungs, but for all

CHRONIC DISEASES OF THE Liver, Blood, and Lungs.
